Staff in Attendance:

Lori Peckol, Terry Marpert, Redmond Planning Department

Business Conducted:

Chair Snodgrass called the meeting to order at 7:03 pm. The agenda and meeting summary for December 3 were approved.

No citizens spoke under items from the audience.

Chair Snodgrass opened the study session on the 2003-2004 Comprehensive Plan Update, Transportation Chapter. He introduced Jim Charlier, Charlier Associates and described the purpose of the study session. Mr. Charlier presented information on mobility trends and conditions and spoke to the Commission about the "Review of Mobility Provisions" paper. The Commissioners discussed and provided direction on several questions presented in the paper. The Commissioners also identified other issues that should be discussed as part of updating the Transportation Chapter and implementing regulations, including level of service standards for pedestrians, opportunities for improvements in transportation system operations (such as signal timing), and impact fee update. Mr. Charlier gave an overview of an upcoming policy paper on concurrency and service standards, briefed the Commission on the City Council's discussion on transit, and described upcoming public involvement events related to transportation.

The Commission agreed to postpone their study session on the Land Use Chapter until December 17.

At 9:50, Commissioner Petitpas moved and Commissioner McCarthy seconded a motion to continue the meeting past 10:00 pm. The motion passed.

Under reports and scheduling, the Commission agreed to hold a retreat on January 24 from 11:30 am to 3:30 pm. In response to a suggestion from Commissioner Dunn, the Commission also agreed to consider an optional briefing meeting on concurrency and level of service standards during the first week of January. Ms. Peckol reviewed the topics for the December 17 meeting, including direction on policy issues to be considered as part of the Parks and Recreation Chapter update, whether to increase housing opportunities in SE Redmond, and identification of any additional policy issues to be considered as part of the Land Use Chapter update.

Chair Snodgrass adjourned the meeting at 10:05 pm.
